

ELDER

Elders are the wisdom keepers of the community. In the Medicine Wheel, they are connected to the North, a place of knowledge, reflection, and guidance. Elders share stories, traditions, and life lessons to help others grow. This stage reminds us to listen with respect, honor the past, and pass on what we've learned to future generations.

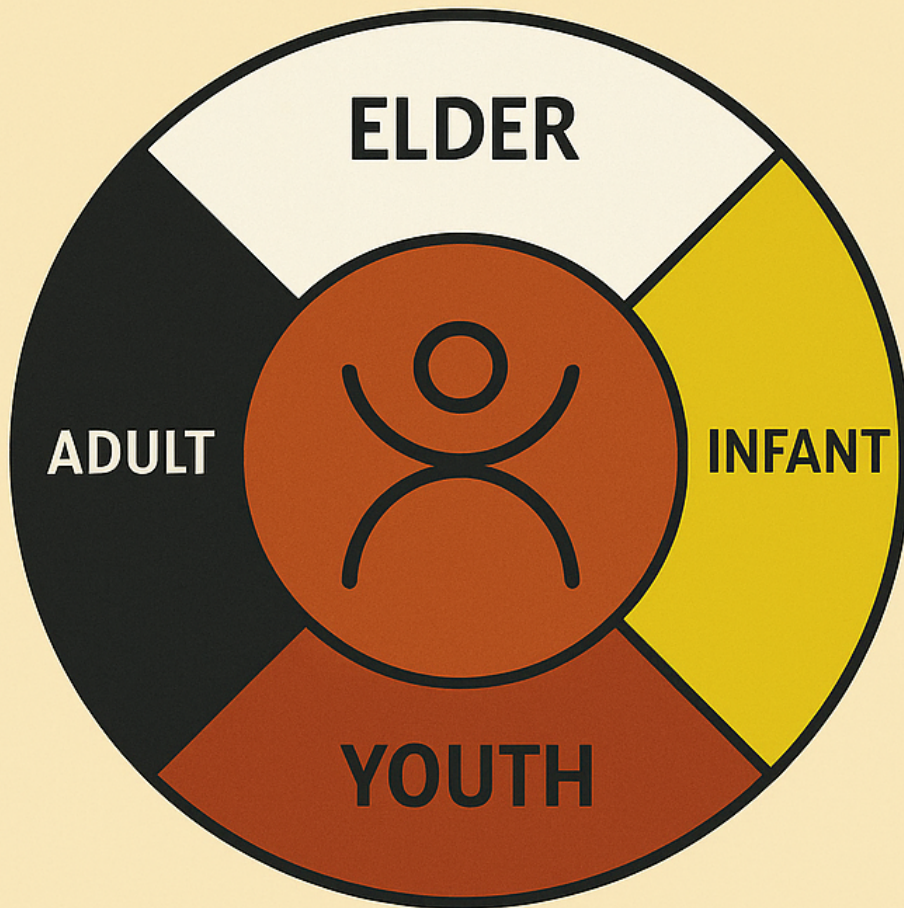

INFANCY

Infancy is represented in the Medicine Wheel as a time of beginnings, discovery, and learning. Like the first rays of dawn, infancy is when you start to understand the world around you. This stage emphasizes wonder, trust and the foundation for growth.

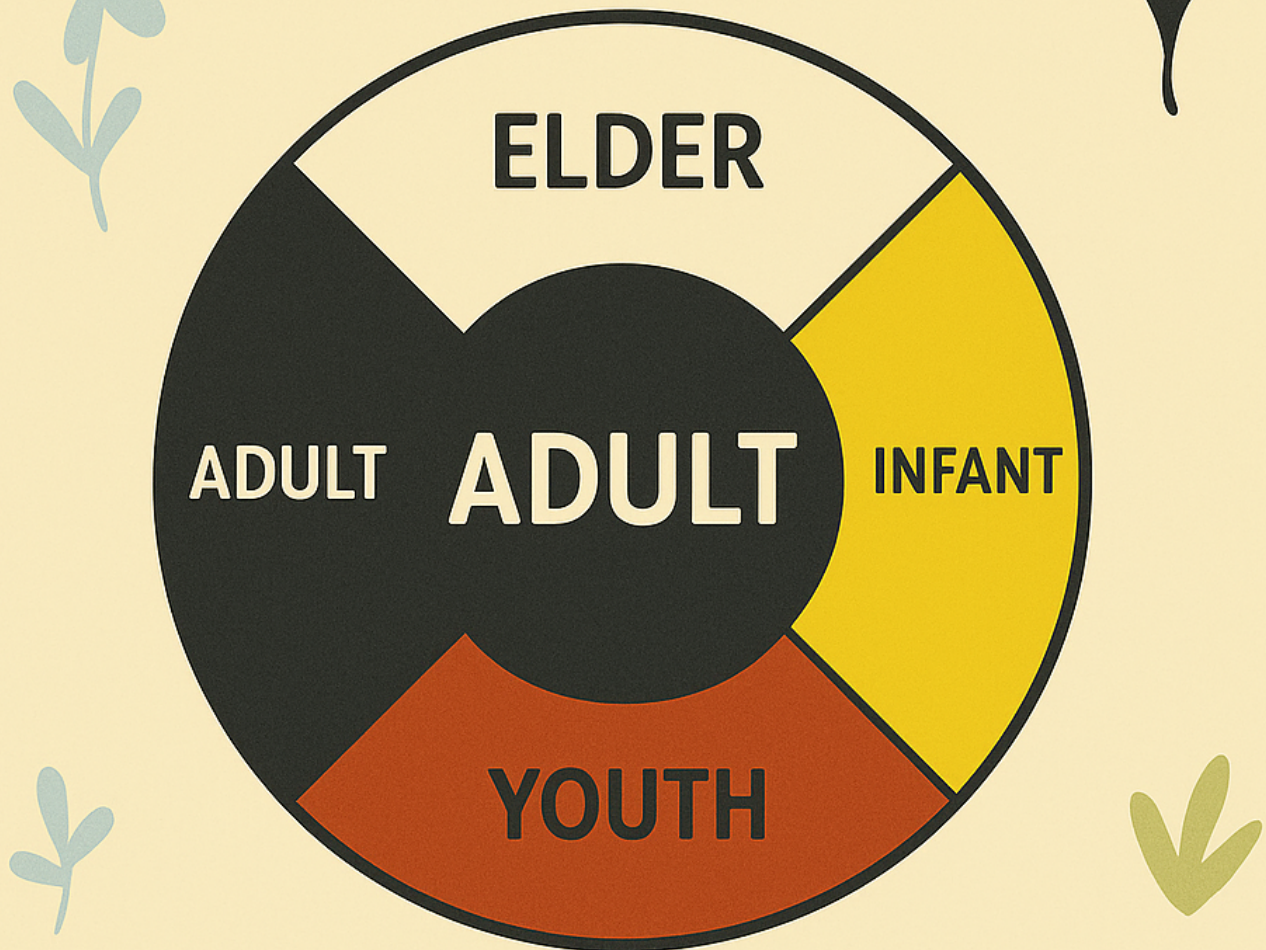

YOUTH

Youth is a time of learning, exploring, and growing into who you are. In the Medicine Wheel, youth is connected to the South, a place of energy, curiosity, and adventure. This stage reminds us to try new things, make mistakes, and build friendships. It teaches us how to make choices, express ourselves, and understand our emotions.

ADULT

Adults occupy the west of the Medicine Wheel. In this stage of life, you fulfill responsibilities to your family and community, using the skills and knowledge you have gained throughout your youth.
