

SAGE PURPOSES

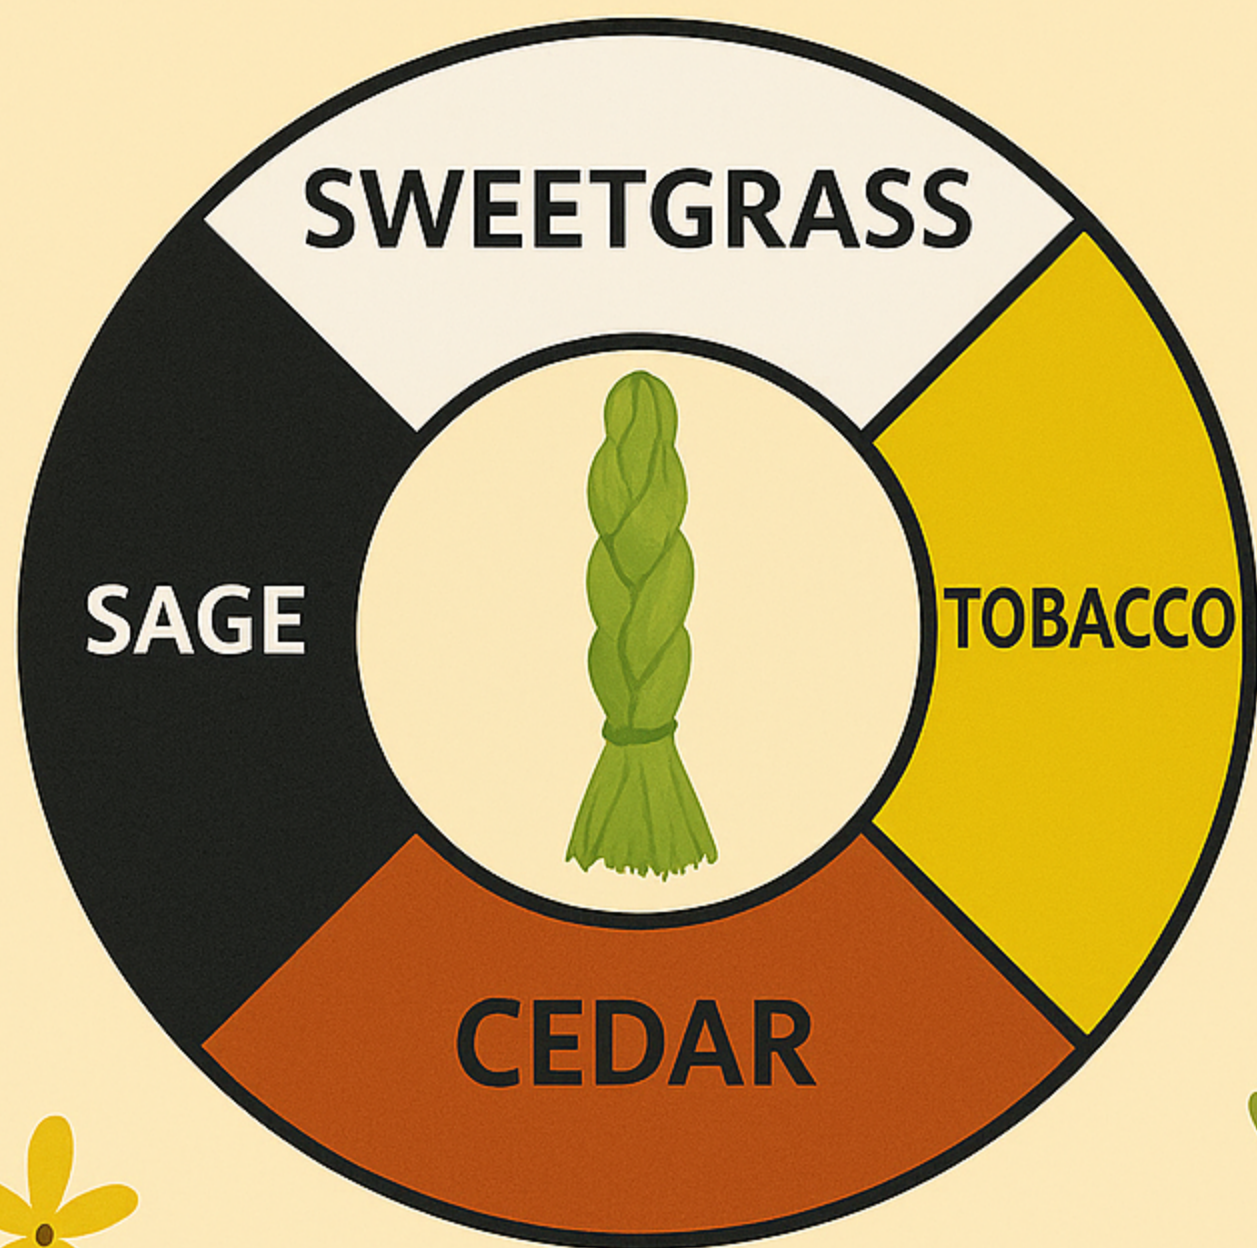

Sage is a sacred plant with many healing purposes. It is known for its strong, cleansing smell. Used in ceremonies, sage helps clear away negative energy, helping us let go of what no longer serves us and creating space for renewal.

CEDAR PURPOSES

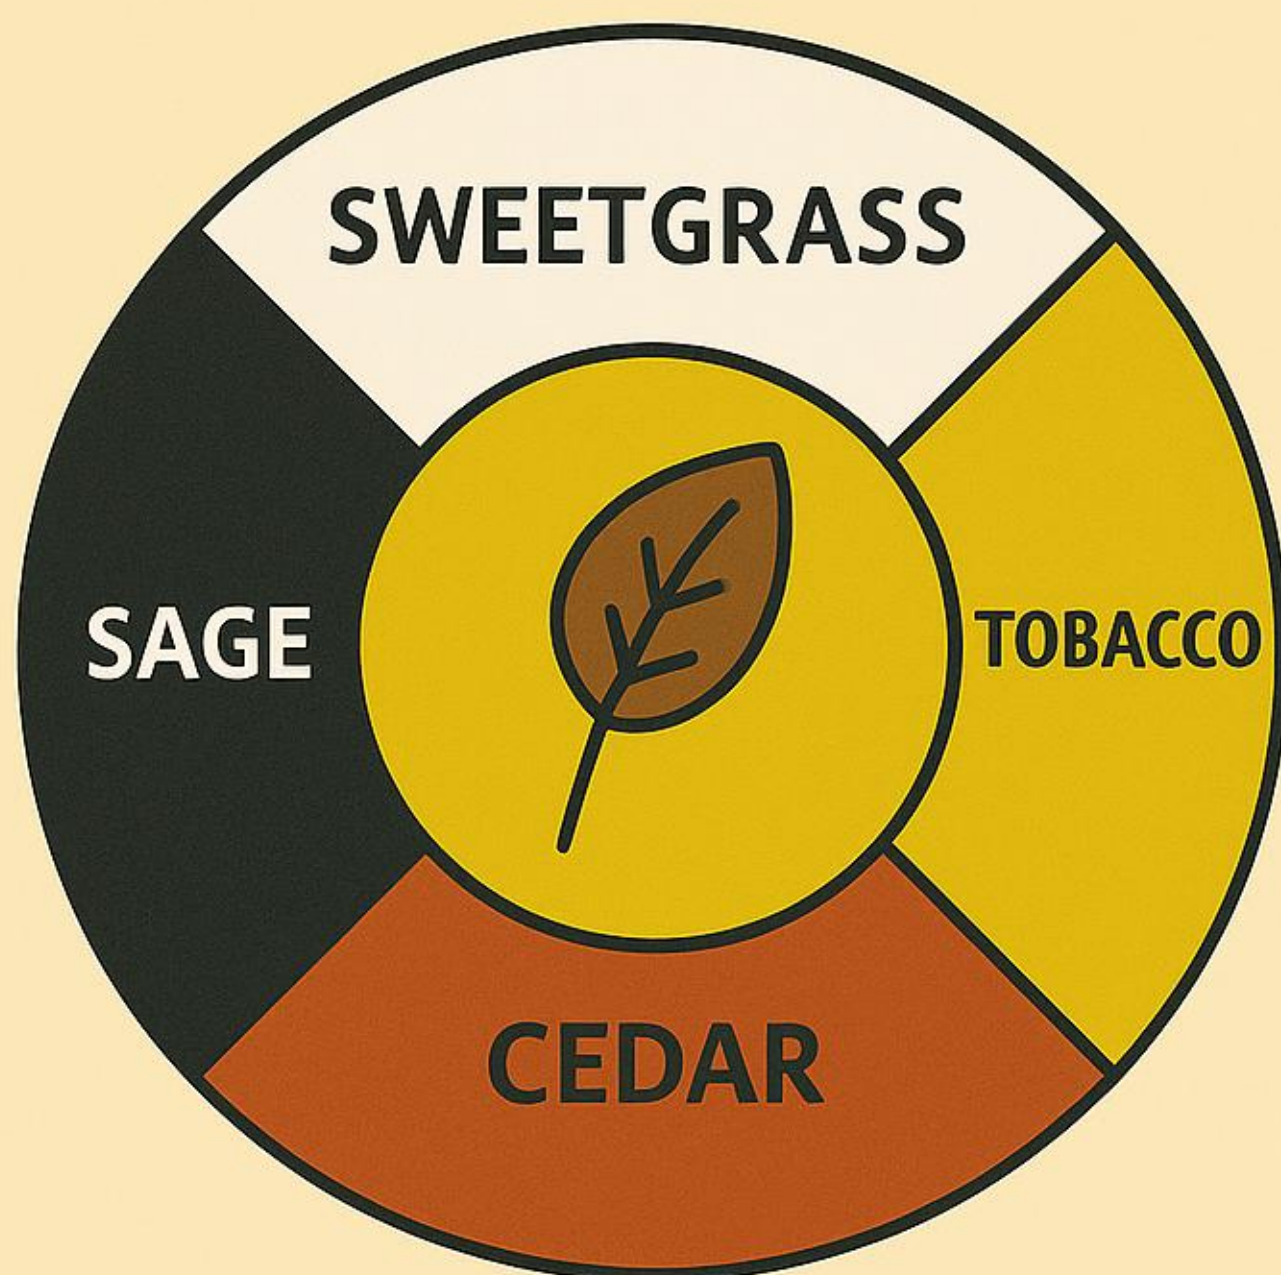

In Indigenous cultures, cedar is known for its deep purifying power. It is used for cleansing, protecting, and sending prayers to the Creator. Cedar branches are placed on the ground for ceremonies and when boiled, offered as medicine.

SWEETGRASS PURPOSES

Sweetgrass is a sacred plant with many spiritual purposes. Its sweet, calming fragrance is often used in ceremonies for purification and to encourage positive energy. Braided like hair, sweetgrass is said to carry prayers to the Creator and invite benefits and kindness.

TOBACCO PURPOSES

Tobacco is a sacred plant used in many Indigenous cultures. It is offered in prayer, during ceremonies, and to show gratitude. Tobacco represents respect and has a powerful purpose of connecting us to the Creator and the spirit world.
